Reading guide - Where do you stand?

Get to level 1 when you believe that all is right in the world.

Get to level 2 when you want to take a closer look at the world lie.

Get to level 3 when you believe that the universal laws of nature are the solution.

Get to level 4 when you believe that man is a creator being.

Get to level 5 when you believe that life is predetermined.

Get to level 6 when you know that you are everything.

Dear reader, check everything!
The outside should inspire you to look inside.

Introductory Comments

A workbook for the (newly) spiritual person

I don't know who you are and where you are right now. I would like to invite you to go a little way with me. The exercises in level 7 can usually be completed in a maximum of five minutes and can be very helpful for your everyday life or the change process you may want to undergo. Take a look at my thoughts from Level 1 to Level 6 beforehand. But that's not important either. Has but everything (still) has (its) time!

Liberation from spiritual poisoning

Yes, it does exist. The formula for health and happiness. It reads: Health =

Illness - negative emotions - (physical and mental poisoning)

Health is the absence of illness, negative emotions and mental and physical poisoning. This book describes in particular the way out of mental poisoning. It's all your (harmful) ideas. It is the belief that some outside world will help you. This book can also be your last book. It builds the bridge between you and your inner self. If you discover this inner source of strength, then you too will write a book rather than read another one. You will then be your student and teacher at the same time and will find your true reality! Inspire and remind others.

Transformation from the 3rd to the 5th dimension

If you realize in the 3rd dimension that you can think in three dimensions, then as an observer you are already standing outside of it and should have automatically landed in the next dimension. I have no particularly spiritual idea about this. Millions of books have been written about this. But this book contains insights and exercises that will open up new dimensions in your life. And if you can recognize the 4th dimension, namely that which is, that which is effective, the truth or that which is solid, the illusion of time, then in conclusion you should have already landed in the 5th dimension. It's as simple as that. Also the-half you are reading this book.

With this in mind, I wish you many exciting insights and ultimately a healthy and "in truth" self-determined life.

The world lie

Dman is a being of truth. If you dive deep into the lie of the world with an open mind, you will get a new idea of reality in this world. A reality that actively denies you access to the truth today. This outside burdens you, it makes you normal, sometimes powerless or you have already become ill. But it is not your fault. The world lie has only talked you into guilt through its tool of religion. This is the current order in which we live. The world lie lets you starve and die of thirst. It also wants you to be busy all the time and therefore constantly draws attention to itself. You are not free. You are not a self-determined being.
The world lie has built you into its world and keeps you busy around the clock. It creates problems for you that you wouldn't have without it.

For example, who says you need a passport? Don't we live in the same world? Who says you have to have a car? Most of the time, you only use it to drive to work. You use the money you earn there to pay for your apartment in the city so that you can live close to your workplace. You also use this money to buy your vehicle and clothes for work. Or look at another example: Who tells you that you need to be sick in the first place? The biggest influence on this is perhaps stress. The stress you have because you're at work.

The world lie shows you false solutions to these problems. It sends you to a therapist instead of recommending that you simply go into the forest for two hours. The earth is a water planet and the world lie speaks of a lack of water in a closed cycle system. It says you should set yourself goals so that it can then exploit them for its own purposes. You will then pay more taxes and be an even better consumer. What's more, setting a goal also immediately makes you aware of your lack. All so that you don't turn around. You would you will no longer need the world lie, because your gold treasure is behind you. It lives from you. It lives off your fear, your illness and your insecurity. It gives you an apparent sense of security and in return it takes away your freedom. You don't feel the shackles because you don't move. I already understood her game. It was the same for me a few years ago.

The lie of the world is not our home. There is also another world. I have found places that I like. Maybe you will like them too. I invite you to walk part of the way with me. You will then walk the last part alone, because it is your own way home. I will make sure that you have enough strength for this. It is the ability to think in a new way. This will teach you to look at the lies of the world from within. The harmful outside will gradually disappear and you will recognize your true potential as a human being. So you don't need more, you need less. This book will guide you to remember everything again. Of a world that lies behind your pre-conceptions and that is perhaps a few billion times more beautiful.

You can take care of the world lie, because behind it lies your truth. A truth that helps you not to develop, but to develop again. It actively shows you what you can change in your life. This thought will also develop within you. In the same way, all your knowledge will develop out of you again. This is the great potential of your development. Everything is within you. You wouldn't be able to recognize the sourness in a lemon if you hadn't tasted it first. You would not recognize a blue if you had no idea of the color blue within you. The word "be-merken" already contains the word memory. Everything you remember is already within you. You are everything.

Your VOR positions delete the world

Today, you are constantly exposed to the beliefs, values and opinions of others. On the path to an authentic life, the most important thing is to first recognize who you really are. Only by looking at your true nature can you become authentic and unique. How do you think your ideas came about? Do you now believe that vaccinations are healthy or, on the contrary, make you ill? Who implanted these ideas in you? Have you ever allowed yourself to be convinced of something or found an argument as to why what you believed until now was not right? Have you ever bought a product because someone told you something new about it? Maybe even the much more expensive one? Can you imagine that what you are reading or hearing now might be the right thing to do? Can you imagine that perhaps everything in the world is different from what you previously thought? What would be the consequences if you were now looking for a solution to your problem? What would the consequences be if perhaps everything in the world was a lie? That would mean you would have to start thinking in a completely new way, wouldn't it? You would have to abandon all of your PRE-positions, which have been created by your "outside".

have been built up. Can you do that?

For example, your VOR positions become active with the question: What is a table? But the table is much, much more if you try to describe it without the word "table". The word table itself only expresses a VOR position. But you delete this "more" by using the word
"Table". Please read the previous sentence again very carefully. The table is a top in a wide variety of colors and sizes. This plate is always horizontal at a height of usually 90 centimeters above the floor and is often supported by four round or square stilts, usually 10 cm thick, which are often attached to the edge of the corner. We usually use the plate to place our plates of food on. These are just a few examples of what is meant by this "more", and even behind the description "plate" there are other shapes and VOR positions that could still be described. Do you understand it now? By using the word "table" you have automatically deleted everything else.

The same applies to your PRE-positions and deletions regarding the aspects of our earth. That's why I'm not speaking to you at the moment you. You, your true being, are behind it. Incidentally, that is also the reason why you are constantly searching. On television, in the newspaper, on the internet and in this book. You are searching for what is real. A world that lies behind your preconceptions. But it's quite simple. When you describe the earth as a human being in the future, leave out the word "earth" (world) and write down on a piece of paper what this something is. This exercise will sharpen your perception and get all your deletions out of the basket of your mind. You will recognize the miracle when you do it. No one will do it for you. This is the path we are now walking together with this book. I will help you and find your first tangles with you. Exactly at your own pace.

WE ARE AT LEVEL 1

Is everything (in) order in the world?

My story

I myself was ill for a long time and am now healthy again. But I didn't find the solution where I was looking. Not from a doctor, not from physical exercise, not from a course, not from nutritional supplements, not from diet, not from sport, not from external happiness, not from relationships, not from friends, not from relaxation and not from spiritual concepts. I found the solution within myself, inside myself. And at the end of my tether. Everything on the outside had prevented me from getting well again. The lie had found its way directly to me - also through the visibly ineffective conventional medicine. So I began to collect this information and implement it in my life in order to act on it.
to derive valid solutions for me.

The solution optimizer

Seven as a child, I was always looking for solutions and ways out. Growing up as the sixth child in a guesthouse with an attached farm wasn't easy for me back then. You sometimes try to avoid work or find shortcuts or ways to make things easier. Later, as an "adult", it was perfect for me because these skills of optimizing are very much in demand in working life. As a mechanical engineer, salesperson and entrepreneur, there are many tasks to master every day. Whether it's shortening production times, selling products or later introducing a payment system in Germany for a financial group.

Everything wanted to be optimized.

How I deal with the disease

After suffering from concentration problems during this time, I now also had to find a solution for my health. After a CT scan, the representatives of our conventional medicine told me that they couldn't find anything and couldn't really treat my symptoms. They sent me to a psychologist and he sent me to alternative medicine. I then spent eight years there with a total of 250 treatments between bioresonance and liver and bowel cleansing. They were good and helped me so that I could work at least a few days a month. However, I now had a lot of time on my hands because I had also lost many jobs due to my illness. The television was taboo for me from 2008, after I had spent a year in front of the TV in fear of the supposed swine flu. Nevertheless, I had a strong need for information, as is perhaps natural for humans. So I started searching the internet for suitable solutions, information, experts, interviews and lectures on my illness. Today, extrapolating twelve years times 365 days times three broadcasts a day, I have a whopping 13,140 shorter or longer broadcasts on the topics that interested me at the time. Unfortunately, it wasn't until 2016 that I started taking written notes. But at that time I had point, we have already been given a solution for health.

I'm fine today. I'm healthy, sporty, I'm not afraid, especially not of death. I make a living and can earn up to 1,500 euros a day with a phone and a laptop, and even more as a trainer. So I'm done in just a few working days a month and otherwise devote myself to whatever I feel like doing. Today, I only think about the past for a maximum of three days and the future for three days. I know that I can control my life as I wish, but I'm happy with what I have. Like a professional boxer who would never use his strength in a fight in a disco. I am only concerned with a few installed hypnosis parts, such as an imagined lack or issues relating to my origins and life mission. Today I have a higher level of consciousness (experienced knowledge, experience) than ten years ago.

After looking at and working through the lectures of various experts and through constant self-experimentation, I have found access to this knowledge and to a few realities. In this book I show you my current findings and experiences. Maybe that's why you too will be able to turn the RIGHT screws in your life more quickly. So together we will solve tomorrow's tasks with tomorrow's tools. Outside the current thinking framework. As Einstein said: "You can never solve problems with the same way of thinking that created them."

Has the lie perhaps reached an unbelievable dimension ?

Vll the experts in the interviews and lectures were always complaining about some kind of world conspiracy. One expert came to this conclusion from the perspective of medicine, the next from the perspective of the school system, yet another found the lie in the falsification of history and so on. So I started to investigate this topic too and, after twelve years of research, I can unfortunately confirm it. The world lie, this deception of people, is promoted and implemented with cheap money. And by the most intelligent beings inhabiting our planet today, and I don't mean our politicians. When I recognized the lie in this unbelievable dimension, it was clear to me that I had no effective answer for health. and freedom on the basis of these untruths.

There are not only lies in the world. Many truths are just perceptions. My or your perceptions are individual because they are based on our highly personal previous experiences. In this frame of mind, we only perceive life in a limited way. Therefore, be certain that it will take time and consciousness development to to create a reality from your individual perception. Much of the world is also just faith and trust. I trust that the water from the tap is clean. But I don't know it. I believe it. It's all about trial and error. Until you can suddenly connect the right dots.

Is science at the heart of our world of lies?

Rudolf Taschner, a representative at the Science Forum in Alpbach, reports that as much as 30% of the research results published are false or falsified! He says: "Expecting a truth from science is a foolhardy game. Because what science delivers are truths that are dependent on other truths, which in turn are dependent on other truths and on other truths [...] until you arrive at the ultimate truths. In mathematics, too, there are (simply) axioms that have been set once. An axiom is a theory that is assumed without proof, for example that a straight line and a point that does not lie on it, a straight line parallel to it exists."

Prof. Dr. Hans-Peter Dürr, the former director of the Max Plank Institute, said the following in the interview "The spiritual is the driving force": "Science works with a fishing net of five centimetres and the law that is derived from this is: 'In the sea, all fish are larger than five centimetres and all have gills'. In science, an experiment is always structured in exactly this way. Our foundation of truth is nothing other than the last slab of the meat grinder. We take reality, put it through a meat grinder and then sausages come out the front. So that's how we look at our reality. Now the other person says: 'No, reality is noodles', because in his opinion the last plate was a plate of noodles (prejudice) and he is talking about that.

we then tell ourselves. So we talk about sausages and noodles and regard this reality as reality. So the truth is not reality and this in turn is not reality, the tangible, but only the potentiality. Something that hangs in the air. A potential that has the possibility of being realized at any moment and can take shape in the present. From this arises the seemingly tangible. Reality is how I deal with the existing potential. With my mind, I form a reality out of the potential of life. People can use this to shape their own reality at any time."

Is a world conspiracy the dicause of the world lie?

An his book "World Conspiracy - Who are the true rulers of the earth?", author Jan van Helsing writes the following introduction: "More and more people are realizing that they are being lied to and deceived by those in power and that the people's representatives do not represent the people, but the interests of large corporations, the military and business. Large, global companies and organizations run our world. The fact that it is not the presidents and chancellors who govern a country is no longer a secret, at the latest since Dr. Arend Oetker, then chairman of the Atlantic Bridge, said: "The USA is governed by 200 families, and we want to have good contacts with them." These family clans call the raw materials on earth their own, determine the price of gold and lend astronomical sums to warring countries. But are they really only concerned with economic interests or is there something completely different behind it? We live in a world in which there are constant wars and terror and we are suffering from an increasingly unstable financial system. Is this a coincidence or the result of mismanagement? Absolutely not! This state of affairs has been deliberately brought about because, according to the wishes of the ruling family clans, the human race of the future will no longer need cash.

and many other things as well. However, we humans are not only trapped in the financial system, but also in faith. The idea and necessity of religion has been perverted and used against humanity with diabolical genius. We are modern slaves, that is the bitter truth. The countries of Europe - especially Germany - are currently being overrun by immigrants against the will of the majority of the population and forced into a financial and political straitjacket with payment obligations for huge sums. Is there possibly a historical reason for these target areas? Is there a place in the past from which it all started? Are those we believe to be the ruling families - the so-called Illuminati - really the true masters of this world? Or are there facts that are being kept from us? Are they perhaps just following orders? If so, by whom? Instead of living peacefully in one big family of nations, we live in fear of each other and fight each other. Cui bono? - Who benefits? All this is only possible because we don't know the true causes and the true history of our plan."

You find the truth faster when you set things in motion

Do bring the world into the shape you want it to be in is apparently possible at any time. In any case, change is your chance to have it even better. Experiencing the new gives you information about how to evaluate the old. It's like going on a wonderful vacation only to realize that home is the best place to be. The familiar has its charm. You may also be familiar with the example of search images on the internet. Find the eight among the nines. At first glance, you can't really tell the difference between the hundreds of nines. But if you then move the picture up and down quickly on the screen, you will have found the eight in just a few seconds. And so will also be the case with the truth. As in small things, so in big things. You research, you write, you assert, you revise, you debate, you discuss. The more you set your topics in motion, the quicker you will find the truth! In any case, you will also find many lies when dealing with the truth, which is certainly very important at the beginning because they give you an idea of where to look again. The truth is often just the opposite!

Can you get out of your existing mindset?

It was only a year ago that I had a conversation with a highly intelligent friend. (He was also a member of the Austrian government's coronavirus crisis team). I wanted to get out of my previous way of thinking with him and thought he could help me. So we talked about the principle of truth. His first suggestion was that it might be hidden in an onion-skin principle. In your research, you simply peel yourself from the outside in and then you find the truth at the core. At least that was his approach. I thought about it for a moment and it occurred to me that the truth might not even be in the onion. That is also a possible classic mistake. We are dealing with the unraveling of the onion and in reality it may be about carrots. How is an ant supposed to understand that there is such a thing as a universe? And even if it were to spend thousands of lives doing this, what would it know about reality? The conversation went on for a bit longer, but I had already decided to ignore the onion and go on a search outside of this idea. So I simply drew a circle on a piece of paper and thought about what might be going on outside this circle. Based on my basic assumption (everything is a lie), I had to assume that what I knew or

I heard that I should be inside the circle. The knowledge that came to me about consciousness, BEING and dealing with the Higher Self brought me to the current state of affairs. I had already been practicing the New Thinking according to Rudolf Steiner more intensively for over two years. Rudolf Steiner describes the New Thinking as a path to spiritual knowledge of the world. For me, this discovered knowledge is an exciting adventure that I am now putting into practice in my life every day. That is why I am happy to write these lines. The moment to pass on this knowledge to others may well have arrived.

Who made you what you are today?

In a lecture, I came across the sentence: "People are what you make of them." Based on my previous knowledge and as an experienced entrepreneur, it was immediately clear to me that this statement was true. So who made us what we are today? The deduction from this was also exciting for me. If I could direct others, then I could also influence myself accordingly and perhaps freely determine my own destiny. But again, I am skeptical about such clear statements. Is the idea of self-determination something that doesn't exist? Am I really self-determined or is my life perhaps predetermined in some way? determined? Have you already found the answer to this question for yourself?

Is life a game?

You are at a certain level in your life today and are hopefully mastering your current challenges with flying colors. If not, that's a very good thing, because problems and adversity can take us to a higher level of development. Just like in a computer game, the next level also requires different knowledge and you can start building this up today. The topics of consciousness development, rejuvenation, increased brain power and uncompromising health are possible for you at any time. Just like a constant flow of bliss or a fear-free life with natural access to yourself. You can access 100% of your energy or connect better to a spiritual world and thus also these possibilities use. Exactly as you allow yourself to.

What do you think? Have you ever dealt with the topic of "world lies"? If not, then let me warn you that the next few pages on the global lie construct will challenge you. Perhaps this will free you from the first misconceptions and give you a better understanding of how this world is created at the moment.

"A LIE ONLY HAS TO BE BIG ENOUGH AND NOBODY WILL BELIEVE THAT IT IS A LIE." This quote is probably from Goebbels. He was one of the masters of planned lying propaganda in every form.

If you don't know how things are connected, you will always look for the solution to your problems in the wrong place! And because lies are so deeply rooted in the world, you will always be looking in the wrong place. So you need truth and strength? Then buckle up and don't leave your resistance aside. Check everything!

Thalia. The citizens

Johann Wolfgang von Goethe (1749 - 1832)

And it immediately moved the good, understanding mother:
"You are always so unjust to your son, father! And so your wish for good is least fulfilled.
For we cannot mold the children according to our own mind; as God gave them to us, so we must have them and love them, They educate to the best of their ability and leave everyone to their own devices.
Because one has these gifts, the others have other gifts;
Everyone needs them, and everyone is only good and happy in their own way."

The truth does not come from afar. It takes initiative, research, time and

WE SWITCH TO LEVEL 2

The lie weakens you and the truth makes you strong!

The world lie at a glance

Remember that everything you think you know will usually be the opposite!

The LIES in the world are a bottomless pit.
Recognize what is TRUE and you no longer need to search for the golden treasure of your life. You have found it!

Every one of us lies from time to time. We start lying when we are children and we are frightened when our children lie to us again. These lies are not very convoluted and very easy to see through. We talk about it, don't give it a second thought and tell ourselves it will blow over. Convoluted lies, on the other hand, are not so easy to recognize. This is especially true because they have penetrated our news world or "historiography". It takes a lot of insight and time to see through these lies. But we don't have time. Our daily lives are dominated by work, running costs, traffic jams and soccer. Perhaps there is a brief moment in between to take a look at the newspaper. If you take the time to look at and analyze everything a little more closely, then you are sure to discover one or two interesting facts. other surprising realization.[1]

You are human and therefore automatically always in search of the truth. I've spent the last twelve years going through the world lie and it wasn't always easy for me. That's why I'd like to give you a quick "But watch out!" first. Have you ever heard the saying: "If you teach a rabbit to speak and then confront it with the questions of life, it will be stuck for a while with its beautiful bunny le-over!"? At least that's what happened to me back then. Most truth seekers have only been able to acquire the information you will receive in the next hour through many years of research. This gave them time to integrate their new knowledge. Whether you like it or not, you will recognize some things that have been hidden from you until now. It will change your life and you will also receive the gift behind the world lie later on. You will come into your life mastery and will not only get to know the truth better, but also yourself. A first-time reader says about the book: "The book is a fan that gently yet firmly removes the fog of the world's lies from your face." This is your and our opportunity for development here on this earth. The world lie offers you this important resistance and this pressure turns a piece of coal into a diamond. If you understand this, then you know that an illness in particular has the gift of being your best teacher. So look at the lies of our world with this understanding and send your best wishes. Good things will come to the world as a result.

Aspects of the world lie

Is an electric car really environmentally friendly? Is wind power the end of the line? Did you know that the forces that supposedly want to eliminate climate change have themselves been suppressing better forms of energy for decades, or have stopped researching them? That even water engines would be possible? Are you aware that the very same politicians who are applauding the FFF(=666) movement today have themselves allowed pollution in Third World countries, for example, for decades and that there was certainly never no alternative? Did you know that the rivers there are used as garbage dumps and that the rainforest has been cleared for decades to grow palm oil and soy? A small bunch of climate activists pretending to stand up for the world, and yet millions of euros are being lost on the stock markets?

lion with $CO_2$ certificates, while the real causes are not being addressed. And to bring another topic into play: we are finally taking care of pigs and cattle and have overlooked the fact for decades that over 25 million children starve to death every year and around 40 million children are aborted annually! Where is the solidarity of children and people in the West? A billion in donations was quickly collected for the Notre Dame scrap heap. It is precisely these elites who earn billions by persuading us every day that we are lacking and selling us consumption as a solution. At the same time, they build televisions that only last three years instead of the 25 they used to. These same corporations have also managed to reduce the burning time of light bulbs to a few hours, while the record-breaking light bulb has still been burning for 113 years. While they take to the streets against the diesel car, which has already been improved by milestones, they are poisoning our agriculture with insecticides and glyphosate. They are polluting the climate themselves, among people, and are now even inciting children against their parents because women against men or left against right or Christians against Muslims was not enough for them. While we are looking at the wrong solutions, we also have to allow ourselves to be divided. People don't even dare to leave the house because of fear and then there's the coronavirus scam. It's just a hypocritical world. So for me it's so clear and I'm glad that fewer and fewer people are falling for all these lies. Why is the media telling us this story? In my opinion, if the TV doesn't tell the truth, then it's easily our job to point out what we think is there to point out. In fact, it's very important to get closer and closer to the truth, because when it comes to health, it's not just about your brother or your mother, but about you personally. If you have the idea that doctors will take care of your health, then you will only become a good patient for the pharmaceutical industry. Too healthy to die and ill enough to be on the consumer drip of these companies for a long time. People themselves are smart enough if they have the "right" or more complete information and can therefore recognize the connections.

Incidentally, all of the following topics have hundreds of videos, lectures and pages of evidence for you to research in more detail.

are available. My list is only a small selection and is never complete. You don't need to believe any of it. I hope that it will create sufficient awareness in you, which you can make good use of for your future behavior. I would ask the professionals to give it a quick skim anyway, because you too will find lies and observations worth knowing.

So here is my thought log on the subject of world lies.
(as of May 21, 2020)

1. The lie of overpopulation

Wow big do you think the area would have to be to accommodate eight billion people, each with two square meters of space?
to stand on it? I'll tell you and please do the math: The area is as large as the federal state of Styria in Austria. Have you done the math? Do you still believe in overpopulation? Could it be that this narrative is used to keep people small and in fear? How often is overpopulation used as an argument to impose the greatest restrictions on people? Old ruler strategy: Create a problem and offer your solutions. And now think about who benefits most from the solutions offered? $CO_2$ certificates, the end of mobility, mass food production, abortion, the gender mainstream, world hunger, mass vaccination, etc. Who benefits? Who gains wealth? Who benefits from the narrative? Which measures are publicly legitimized by it? Why do the Georgia Guidestones exist in America with the inscription: Keep humanity under 500 million? Who erected these inscribed stones?

2. The lie of the financial sector

An February 3, 1996, Hans Tietmeyer, then President of the Deutsche Bundesbank, said in Davos that he sometimes had the impression that the bank was not a "good place to be", "that most politicians are still not aware of this, how much they are already under the control of the financial markets and are even dominated by them." Where were the protests from politicians? Where was the public outcry? Who controls the global financial system? Who owned the largest national bank in the world until recently - the Federal Reserve System? Do you know the history of the creation of the FED (Federal Reserve System of the United States)? The US Federal Reserve controlled the dollar and had the power to bankrupt entire economies. For around a hundred years, well into the 20th century, the House of Rothschild was the world's largest bank. The world's most liquid currency was not controlled by the state. The monopoly on the printing of banknotes, the sovereignty over the amount of money and the power over interest rates was held by a private institution. A gigantic impertinence, really. And democratically legitimized to boot. In the end, the compound interest system meant that there could only be extremely rich and extremely poor. Why do almost all countries have debts? To whom? Are the world banks private or state-owned? Do you know the "golden rule" of the financial system: "He who has the gold makes the rules."? What does that mean? How far does its influence extend into the economy?

3. The lie of democracy

Do you still remember the GDR? It already had its lie in its name. The German Democratic Republic. What a mockery! Many Germans from the former East often realize today that things are even worse in the FRG than they were back in the days of the Honecker dictatorship. Social media is censored, many videos by critics are blocked and opinions are suppressed. The train is going in one direction (against the wall) and we get to decide whether our train driver is black, red, blue or green! The quality of political decisions depends on the fact that in a democratic process, in the parties and ministries, in the parliaments and in public, there is a struggle for objectively good solutions and the enforcement of individual interests remains limited. Can there ever b e  a democratic society if people are apparently deliberately kept stupid by the media and school system? Why does ORF.at now also have News in "simple language"? The freelance journalist Ken Jebsen from KenFM spoke with Prof. Rainer Mausfeld about the status quo of a society sworn to the neoliberal course, which is at each other's throats in opposing camp battles, while the moneyed elites continue to pull the strings. Prof. Rainer Mausfeld says: "The manipulation is extremely perfidious, because it insults the people themselves. They do not want to admit that they can and will be led like cattle to the slaughter by using the perverted techniques of democracy to prevent them from seeing the situation in which they actually find themselves. The time of awakening is imminent. It will not come without pain. The media revolution is like giving birth. We have to go through it in order to really start living a self-sufficient life." Not voting is also a decision and non-voters often represent the largest group of voters, don't they? Is it possible to vote NO in a democracy? Does a party system give us the freedom we want? Is politics free, controlled, blackmailed or bought? Why does the word "citizen" even exist? Is democracy perhaps a tricky instrument of domination of the world's lies?

4. The lie of the announced disasters

People are driven from one battlefield to another via the media. Essentially, the aim is to keep us humans in a constant state of fear and guilt. Most of the time, these are problems created by the world lie itself. It then comes up with its false solutions. It invents global vaccination programs or supposedly dangerous $CO_2$ gases, thereby robbing people of their mobility. "Swap freedom for security" is the constant motto. People are to be kept in fear. Governments, the media and experts are all part of the game of global lies. As long as you have not decoded this mechanism, you are just a grateful victim of this world lie. The only way to escape is to develop your awareness. My rescue experience was swine flu in 2008/2009. After being terrified for a year, I set out to find someone with the flu so that I could catch it. But I didn't find anyone. Not even anyone who knew anyone. That's when I finally realized the lie. I then turned off the TV for good. Thank God. Will the catastrophe itself kill us, or will the fear of it kill us?

Sample list of announced disasters (taken and slightly modified from a Facebook article):

- 1975 The ice age will kill us all!
- 1985 The hole in the ozone layer will kill us all!
- 2000 Y2K will destroy everything!
- 2001 Anthrax will kill us all!
- 2002 The West Nile virus will kill us all!
- 2003 Terrorism will kill everyone!
- 2004 SARS will kill us all!
- 2005 Bird flu will kill us all!
- 2006 E. coli will kill us all!
- 2008 The financial crash will kill us all!
- 2009 Swine flu will kill us all!
- 2012 The Mayan calendar ends. We will all die!
- 2013 North Korea wants World War 3. We will all die!
- 2014 Ebola will kill us all!
- 2015 ISIS will kill us all!
- 2016 Zika will kill us all!
- 2017 Climate change will kill us!
- 2018 EBOLA will kill us!
- 2019 Climate change will kill us!
- 2020 Corona will kill us all!

And, according to an Internet find, the fun is set to continue.

5. The lie of the school system

In school, we do NOT learn what we need in life. Our creative human potential drops from 100% in early childhood to just 2% after graduation. Sufficiently intelligent enough to work, but too little to rebel against an unjust system. Who invented the globally standardized school system? Why was it implemented in the same way all over the world? (When otherwise the world powers always disagree on everything else). Why do we learn thousands of hours of math when most of us only have to add, subtract, divide and calculate percentages in our professional lives? Why are subjects such as personal development, health, nutrition, success, communication, raising children, developing potential, leisure activities, media skills, dealing with money, "How do I prepare a tax return?" missing? (Almost everyone has to do it, nobody is taught it at school), problem-solving strategies and much more? Who benefits when people are kept stupid in this dimension? A letter from a "woke" teacher from Salzburg to the parents and children at home during the coronavirus crisis.
Home office can be found in the following text:

"Dear parents, please don't be afraid because your children are missing school for so long. Use this time for other important things. Teach them how to cook, check the oil in the car, do the laundry, treat others with respect, sew on a button. Plant flowers with them, paint rocks with them and lay them out for others. Do fun things with them and tell them about your childhood. Because not everything you need in life is taught in the classroom."

6. The lie about energy

We live in fear and a lack of energy. But is that the truth? Does it have to be? In the last hundred years, for example, there have been many inventions relating to free energy. This is an energy source that always produces more energy than it needs without any action on our part. It would make people independent of energy companies. Apparently, out of 300 people who have researched such technologies here, 100 have suddenly become rich, 100 have disappeared and the other 100 have died unexpectedly. So free energy is being suppressed and the patents end up in the drawers of large corporations. Why? There is a car in Switzerland that only needs salt water to drive. It reaches a maximum speed of 300 kilometers per hour, has 1090 hp from four electric motors and has a range of 800 kilometers as a 2+2-seater. Why is this technology not being made accessible to the masses? Who is still pulling the strings here?

7. The lie of the mainstream media

Unfortunately, pluralism, diversity of opinions and diversity are not a reality in the mainstream media today! Many media, many opinions. Whoever believes it will be blessed. Rather more information dissemination in global harmony. The wheels of the international press business interlock in the three major news agencies Associated Press, United Press International and Reuters. The owners are mostly the same families that own the large corporations. No matter what kind of communication reaches our seven senses, whether we read something, hear something, see pictures or simply have our attention drawn to something through repetition - we cannot defend ourselves against someone or something communicating with us, addressing us. Opinion makers, politicians, strategists and advertising experts have long since realized this fact. What are the motives behind this synchronization? What interests are being represented? Even a war needs the media. The first thing to die in a war is the truth. How are wars sold to people as sensible? What impact does this propaganda have on our feelings and therefore on our lives? How can people be manipulated simply by omitting facts? How can we recognize this and escape it?

hen? Perhaps by switching off the television?

8. The lie of meaningful work

Bou find ourselves in a kind of slave system? Low pay and consumer debt bind us to a hamster wheel from which we may be able to escape.
We won't be able to get out of it until we retire. With income tax and social insurance, we already have a big burden. In addition, the products we buy are subject to VAT, company overheads and again social security and income tax, which are also included in the product prices. And don't forget the taxes for housing and mobility. If you do the math, you will see that we have a total tax burden of over 80%. According to statistics, we still have 15 years to live after retirement. And unfortunately, that's often more dead than alive. Caught between the feeling of uselessness and the fear of serious illness. So the math doesn't add up. Have you ever thought about it? By the way, who decided that this is the way it has to be? Is there no other concept? Perhaps the next generation will take the opportunity to turn the tide here. Could we make our children aware of these circumstances? What will their solutions be?

9. The lie of music in 440 Hz

1 In 939, the artificial concert pitch A of 440 Hz was standardized almost worldwide and in many places by conference. But it is precisely this unnatural frequency that disturbs our body system. The natural ventricular tone would be the tone frequency 432 Hz, which vibrates in unison with man, nature and the cosmos. Music at 432 Hz has a tangibly relaxing and healing effect on people, opens the heart and connects us - in accordance with the vibration - with heaven and earth, because we have been vibrating in resonance with the sound of the earth since the beginning. Who wants us to be weakened by this? Did you even know that? Who had the desire and the power to establish and standardize the frequency of 440 Hz worldwide?

10. The lie about human potential

Is man a creator being or, as Darwin coined the image of evolutionary theory, merely a product of random circumstances? Is there really nothing but matter? Nothing spiritual, no God? How did man come to earth? Who knows what we will soon learn about our past when the truth becomes truly accessible and the Vatican archives, for example, are opened. Perhaps this will even answer our most important questions. Where do we come from? Where are we going? What potential lies within us? How do our lives or our bodies really work? What about our abilities such as telepathy, telekinesis, clairvoyance and clairsentience, the power of manifestation or the connection to the spiritual world? Anyone who deliberately denies this human potential, this fact, criminally conceals it or even reverses it, is acting in bad faith! Science, religion and the media are all silent about this fact. Why? What is this ignorant view aim? What decisions do you derive from this?

11. The lie of the gender mainstream inside

Gender mainstreaming is currently nothing more than an ideology. But all governments worldwide willingly follow the guidelines for the alleged modernization of society without ever having had a broad democratic discussion about it. Is the gender mainstream an example of a dictatorship of the minority? Freedom in the choice of sexual (gender) orientation? Is that a good thing? Even for children? Is the consequence the dissolution of marriage and family as a union of man and woman with (their own) children? A woman should have to free herself from the slavery of motherhood by having an abortion? You claim that every person has so-called "reproductive and sexual rights", including the right to change their sex. Who benefits from this? Does this bring a "divide and rule" principle into the smallest social community? Who says there have to be 60 genders? Why are women being set against Men? How does this ideology affect the minds of our children?

12. The lies about our world leaders

Who actually came after the nobility? What happened to the brothers and sisters of kings, princes and counts? Have they disappeared? Where do today's politicians come from? From working-class child to American president? Is that how it works? Today, geopolitical power comes from the richest families on earth. Together with the most powerful corporations, they dominate and control all countries and international associations. The real aim of the world lie is to gain complete control over planet Earth. Whether this involves politics, secret services, the economy, school curricula, various sects and religions, the media, drug cartels or the mafia, the World Lie has not forgotten any area. Are there plans to reduce the world's population to half a billion? Perhaps with the aim of leaving the world lie with a sufficient number of controlled slaves? Do you believe that? How far has the world already been penetrated by these powers? Is is that still the case now?

13. The lie about life after death

Read 3,000 near-death experiences from a wide variety of cultures report on life after death. There is no recognized research on this. Science says no. It is all just a question of faith and religion. Where there is no matter, there is no life. Near-death experiences in the context of different cultures prove the opposite. There is sufficient evidence of after-death contacts by people with mediumistic gifts. schen. Why is this not being officially investigated?

14. The lie of the empty universe

In all eternity and in view of the infinite time and possibilities, there should be no other living being outside our earth! Only humans exist in infinity? Who can reasonably believe this and why? Is this reality? Is the universe really our greatest gift? Why is it even called the universe? UNUSVERSUS "One in contrast?" The world lie says it means wholeness? Why do we find another lie in the word itself?

15. The lie about 9/11

This incident in America in September 2001 is often referred to as the mother of all conspiracy theories and was an awakening experience for many uncoverers who are very active in the truth movement today. I have just one question for you: Do you know that, in addition to the Twin Towers in Manhattan, another building (building number 7) collapsed completely and in free fall without an airplane flying into it?

16. The lie about our diet

Our diet is making us ill and there will never be too little food in the world. If we wanted to, we could provide everyone with enough healthy food. Over 800 million people worldwide go hungry. Four billion tons of food are produced every year. Do the math. Do you eat 500 kg of food a year? In addition, even in official figures, a third of the world's food is wasted. This costs the global economy around 750 billion US dollars a year. In developing countries, it is often lost during production, storage or due to wars. No one should starve to death. The only thing missing is the will of the world leaders.

In agriculture, farmers use poisons such as glyphosate. This is a weedkiller and destroys every plant - unless it has been genetically modified. So farmers are later forced to buy the genetically modified seeds from the manufacturer. Associations are convinced that the substance is dangerous. It harms humans and leaches the soil. Ready-made food also contains sugar, leached white flour and preservatives. Milk and the whole

Today, dairy products are contaminated with toxins through animal feed and animal husbandry. Is there really no alternative? Is there a lack of public awareness? Why? Which industries benefit? Perhaps the medical industry? Are you aware of the connection? Why do we manage to feed 70 billion farm animals, but supposedly not 7.8 billion people?

17. The lie of the theory of evolution

In my life, I have learned that a theory is something that has not yet been proven. However, the theory of evolution is supported from all sides.
defended as if it had already been proven. Have you ever heard of the discovery of an intermediate evolutionary stage of a fish and a flying dinosaur? Despite the lack of evidence and countless contradictions, Darwin's theory of evolution is still taught in schools today. It is probably because of this habitual "truth" that we hardly think about whether this theory really corresponds to the facts. According to Darwin, man is supposed to have descended from apes, regardless of the fact that the link has never been found. So where did this human being come from? Why should this be kept secret from us? Why is this not being researched? How far does our human potential extend?

18. The lie of intimate love

I I say that consuming (partnership) love is just a concept that divides society. What do you think? Do you love or have you ever been in love? If you weren't really in love, why were you in a relationship? Maybe because it was nice. You were able to do a lot together and you had a friendly connection that was very pleasant. Maybe on all levels, including sex? You expanded your family. You worked on your present and future or simply forgot your past. That's a good thing, isn't it? Then why are we being told through all channels that we absolutely have to be "madly" in love when this feeling usually comes after a year is over? So why does this consuming form of love exist? Perhaps so that we are never really satisfied? Not even in a good relationship and therefore perhaps not even want to live in a partnership under these "low" conditions? Does this idea promote isolation? It's also funny: we ignore those who want us. We want those who ignore us. We love those who hurt us and reject those who love us the most. Do you think that's normal? There are two million singles in Austria alone. What do you think? Is this idea of consuming love, this "one hundred percent pot and lid" story, really so extremely important?

19. The lie about goals and visions

The bigger the wish, the bigger the beggar. It's been on every channel for years. You should constantly strive for more in order to be happy. But very few have found happiness there, on the contrary. Accepting the things in life in the here and now with gratitude and love brings immediate liberation and satisfaction. Why does this never tell us mand? Why don't we learn this at school?

20. The lie of harmful tobacco

Tabac is considered a medicinal plant in many cultures. Tobacco has been used for both medicinal and ritual purposes for thousands of years and has been used as a once banned in the Middle Ages. In recent decades, the demonization of the tobacco plant began again, although until the 1950s there were still doctors who advertised tobacco as having healing properties. The media and advertising were also in favor of smoking at the time and recommended sugar as a slimming agent. Did the media report incorrectly back then or are the media of today lying? Yes, there are harmful additives, but why are they added to cigarettes at all? Who decided that? Are the horrible pictures on cigarette packets also a problem for smokers? Are you familiar with Masaru Emoto's research? He found that the information of GOOD and EVIL alone has a fundamentally different effect on the Matter has an effect. So the ugly pictures will probably not have a particularly healthy effect on the cigarettes in the packet! Why are there these "attacks" on smokers? Does it encourage too much sociability? Is that perhaps not desired? By whom? Who benefits if people no longer socialize? Only a few smokers were affected by corona. Studies describe a very positive effect of nicotine. Incidentally, the WHO (World Health Organization) had just warned the world about smoking during the coronavirus pandemic. What is the WHO's agenda?

21. The lie of happiness

Who told us that we as humans always have to be happy? When it is precisely in unhappiness, in problems, in illness that our greatest potential for growth lies! Will you be happy if you constantly think about happiness? So who wants to deprive us of this opportunity for growth? What has helped you the most in the past to develop your consciousness? Were they not the worst moments in your life? What actually happens in the body when we are sad? Research has taught us that something is physically missing. Sadness or fear should be the absence of serotonin, dopamine or endorphins. But is this really the case?

Consider this example: a man is happily walking his dog on a mountain. He is therefore sufficiently supplied with happiness hormones. Suddenly the dog falls and injures itself. The man is shocked at this moment and, if more had happened, he would also be sad and distressed. This happens within seconds. This means that something must have been released from the body to cause these negative feelings. Right? Researchers are now talking about cortisol, which is released during stress. But it can't be that alone, then all people who are stressed would be weepy and sad! I don't think the stress would last long. Nobody would want to do anything stressful anymore. So there must be another source that feeds this sadness.

I call and describe it for my research as Spiritoxine ©. Our body immediately switches to a program that is vital for survival. It is about processing the emotions of this shocking experience. We know from Germanic medicine that this is extremely important for the body. By reducing the negative emotion, it protects itself from major physical problems. What is the essence of this realization? Is there such a thing as a spiritoxin release © and how could this be easily suppressed? Have they been hiding something essential from us again? There is nothing to be found on Google about substances that are released by the body to create a feeling of sadness in us. I derived the name Spi- ritoxins © from Spirit (spirit) and Toxins (poisons)! What if we could perhaps isolate something like Spiritoxins ©? What could be done with them from a conventional medical point of view? Would it be possible to block the release completely? We would automatically have a solution for happy and cheerful people. At the moment, pharmaceutical companies still have to sell their psychotropic drugs (which are harmful in many ways) and that is very profitable if you think about the economic dimension of possible secondary illnesses. Consider that almost 25% of all people in Germany currently take psychotropic drugs.

So is 'happiness' just a trap? Consciousness growth is best achieved through a targeted release of spiritoxin © and this makes our life program very conscious. "Harmful" emotions have to be worked through. So this is good news for people who have always blamed themselves when they are not so happy. They are currently undergoing a process of self-healing and growth in consciousness. Who actually told us that we always have to be happy? How long has this concept been around? Maybe since they invented something like advertising on earth? Since someone had to sell products or services? With money we don't have, should we buy a nice car that we don't need so that we can later show off to neighbors we don't like? From this perspective, imagine a growth in consciousness in 40 years of a happy life. Peace, joy and pancakes. Fine, but not much will have happened to our awareness of this world. How could it? That's the problem, the resistance. And this pressure turns a coal into a diamond. So, are you in a bad mood? Yes? Then

All is well, have fun and look forward to a higher consciousness. You've done everything right in your life!

22. The lie of a healthy healthcare system

The aim of medicine is not the long-term well-being of the sick, but primarily to boost the coffers of pharmaceutical companies, clinics and hospitals.
and practices. It seems that 90% of medicine does more harm than good. Examples from Germany: 30,000 to 40,000 deaths due to hospital infections and the consequences of surgery - 2.5% of patients die within 30 days of an operation, 50,000 to 60,000 deaths per year due to incorrect medication alone. Conventional medicine usually only treats symptoms. However, our body is a unique self-healing instrument and symptoms are often an important part of healing or indicate a problem or conflict that needs to be resolved. However, if we only suppress the symptom, we cannot recognize the true problem behind it that our body is trying to make us aware of, so true healing is often suppressed.

Something that Corona shows us clearly again. At a time when hospitals, health centers and doctors were not as accessible as they normally are and things like operations were postponed as much as possible, far fewer people died than in the same period in other years. Death rates also fell in the regions that were temporarily less supplied with doctors.

In a survey of oncologists, 97% of doctors stated that they would never subject themselves or their family to this traditional conventional cancer treatment. Surgeons and anaesthetists are very reluctant to undergo necessary operations themselves, if at all, because they are very aware of the risks involved. Chronic diseases are rarely treated curatively in conventional medicine. In most cases, it is only a matter of suppressing the symptoms. What is going on here? Why does the healthcare system profit from sick people? What are the consequences?

23. The lie of the Hollywood model

Kan you imagine that our era is being intensively infiltrated by the thoughts of satanic think tanks? Have you seen the movie "Out of Shadows"? Then you know that Hollywood is very much involved. The film industry is used to spread the narratives and messages of the world lie and to give the planned oppression of humanity a cinematic framework. Films and series have told us the story of the deadly virus at the same time as Corona. When did they produce it? Was that a coincidence? For centuries, the world lie - through money - has created power structures that cover all areas of our lives, including the Hollywood film factory. Thousands of "people" who have nothing else to do but think about how they can keep us humans in fear, unhappiness or dissatisfaction. They determine the movies, the framework in which people should then think. Are you familiar with the Deep State Mapping Project? A group of enlighteners have taken the trouble to show us their subjective view of the world with an excursion into the recent past (1900) and into the future. The beam is divided into a negative and a positive view of the future. You can easily find the picture and the description on the Internet. Who can stop this? Who is the Deep State? What are the agendas of a New World Order? Where is Hollywood today?

24. The lie about artists and their songs

Gm listening to Falco's songs again and am amazed at the positive approach to his music. After all, he is only a great Part of this world of lies. As a "simple" artist, you never have the chance to be "elected" number one in the charts with a hit in America at the time. Falco once said in an interview that we are in a society that is in free fall and relies on the fact that it will grow wings. Perhaps they brought him into this scene when he was young. I don't want to know what he had to go through because of that. After that, he was just a pawn in the world's lies and until his death he couldn't seem to free himself from his torment. The Song "Wiener Blut" hints at the extremism of this group. He generally tried to tell us the global scenario in his songs, just as many artists only express their secret knowledge through their works. Xavier Naidoo has also known for a long time what terrible things are going on in this world and has been packaging this in his lyrics since before the turn of the millennium. Today it is also time for him to actively go public with his knowledge. Listen to the songs "Men of the West" or "Jaenny" by Falco and you have an idea of what I mean. This is immediately followed by the song "No Answer (Hallo Deutschland)". Apparently he already knew back then that the only way to recover from the whole world lie was through an awareness process in Germany. Unfortunately, most people there are still fast asleep at the moment. So he had no chance against the fixed idea of mass hypnosis in Germany. In any case, Falco clearly presented his knowledge to us in his songs. Again, you had the information right under your nose. "Coming Home" sings about his inner turmoil and his deepest wish was to finally come back home, figuratively speaking. He then died of circumstances that have still not really been clarified today. From my point of view, Falco was nevertheless a very good and godly person. I think you can continue to listen to his songs. Whether at 432 Hz or 440 Hz. This music helped me to paint pictures from another world after the first few months of my illness. Most of the pictures are still hanging in my friends' rooms. But then I stopped painting because I didn't want to fill my storeroom with unused art. So it was time to continue on my path again. Xavier Naidoo, Udo Jürgens and Reinhard May also knew what was going on in the world a long time ago and put their knowledge into their lyrics before the turn of the millennium. Do you want to listen to their songs and read their lyrics? Do you feel ready for a look behind the curtain?

25. The lie about the meaning of life

Ever thought about the meaning of life? Once, ten times or hundreds of times? And have you found a meaning for your life and did it make you feel good or bad? Do you think that the nor-did people 200 years ago think about the meaning of life? Or is this an invention of a few intellectuals of our time? We are supposed to judge life according to whether it has made sense? With billions of galaxies, billions of years and quadrillions of cells inside us? Should a grain of sand in Ibiza or an ant in Guatemala ask itself whether it makes sense? Does our idea of God ask whether he or she has a purpose? In any case, I only came to a proper conclusion on the subject of meaning at the age of 47. The Little Prince teaches us that life is not measured, but lived! That's why, for me, meaning is now just a word within the prison of our language. A constructed framework of thought that expresses a scheme so that we can (more easily?) communicate in this world. I have stopped dealing with the question of meaning. Do you want to get out of this frame of thought? Then it's just a short decision or you simply swap the word meaning for the phrase "tuned to resonance". Just as a fish is tuned to the water or a bird to the air, humans are tuned to resonance. In my self-employed work, I am always able to take people and companies a little further. In return, I am tuned into resonance. Who invented the word meaning anyway? Who was it that made you think about it, perhaps even for years? Is there perhaps an entire industry that can make a good living from this question of meaning? Like a bad doctor who only earns his money by keeping you ill? The worse off you are, the richer he will be. Herman Hesse warns us and says: "You are only afraid if you don't agree with yourself!" Do you need this fear? How do your seven senses - sight, hearing, taste, smell, touch, thought and feeling - fit in with making sense of your life? Is "meaningful" perhaps anything that supports our real seven senses? Wouldn't that answer the question of meaning very simply? Do you want to free yourself from the other question of meaning?

26. The lie of the conspiracy theorist

We now know that the term conspiracy theory is a word invented by the CIA in the 1960s to discredit the scene of investigators and uncoverers of the World War II assassination.

is a lie about President Kennedy. Allegedly, the president was shot dead by the fanatic Lee Harvey Oswald with three shots from different directions within a few seconds using a simple repeating rifle. Coincidentally, Lee Harvey Oswald was shot by another fanatic shortly before his interrogation. So, do you believe the official story? Did you hear about it in school? Do you know what Kennedy said in a speech to the nation a year before he died? Is that probably why he was killed? Today, the term conspiracy theorist also has a few derivations. It has become a catch-all term for supposedly "dangerous enlighteners". In Germany in particular, people are labeled this way as soon as they are not officially politically active but actually only represent conservative values.

Text from an internet commentary: "We are being called rights here, especially when we stand up for peace, human dignity, human rights and the basic rights [of] every individual? When you want all people around the world to be happy, content and able to develop? If you stand up for peace for people and people [should] feel valued in their being. If you are an enlightener who exposes global conspiracies and can show the connection between the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation and the WHO? If you are against vaccination and are worried that people could be harmed by it? When you know and say that we are all ONE, whether black, white, right-wing, left-wing, Swiss, American, gay, straight, woman, man, old and young." So many people today are labeled right-wing extremists or right-wingers, even though they simply stand up for peace, self-determination and family. These are messages that keep getting through to us through individual people and their connections to the spiritual world. The angels want to help us as humanity to follow our true potential. What does the lie of the world want to achieve with this negativity? Divide and rule? Or is the term conspiracy theorist, Nazi, right-wing or anti-Semite simply used to denigrate people who speak uncomfortable truths? Why is the bearer of the news worse than the news itself? Have you ever heard the saying: "If you tell the truth, you need a fast horse?"

27. The lie about healthy vaccinations

Those who know nothing must believe everything. And if unruly authorities believe that they can inject their potentially dangerous and disease-causing vaccines into people all over the world, then it is time to raise public awareness. Thank goodness there are people who know more and have a different approach to the subject of vaccination in general. For example, Dr. Stefan Lanka, who talks about it in one of his video lectures.[2] Regardless of whether there is such a harmful virus in the first place, I know what's in the vaccines and I do NOT want that stuff in my body. What's more, DNA components from human fetuses(!) are also used to produce the vaccine. I know that there are many vaccine injuries that are not sufficiently documented and published. Why not? Is there perhaps something to hide? In the case of two girls in my neighborhood, one died immediately after a vaccination and the other has been severely disabled since infancy and her family has been officially compensated. But is it even possible to compensate for such damage?

Did you also know that the mRNA vaccines used today have not been adequately tested for genetic damage and that the changes they cause in the body may be irreparable? I myself had mumps, measles and so on as a child and back then they were only childhood illnesses for me and no school had to be closed as a result. A pediatrician writes on his website:
"Illnesses often go hand in hand with a proper developmental spurt. Children's bodies are still undergoing "defense training", so to speak. With every illness, it gathers more strength and defenses against all the pathogens that are buzzing around in our environment. And that's important!" So this effect is taken away from our children by a vaccination!

And if you believe that earlier diseases such as measles were prevented by vaccination, I would like to ask you: Do you know what really happened back then? Were you there? What if I told you say that the vaccination was only used after the diseases had subsided? Would you believe that? So here we are again, those who know nothing must believe everything. Personal responsibility is required here. Legitim.ch writes in an article: "It is unbelievable how the pharmaceutical industry adorns itself with false feathers. Again and again they say that life expectancy has increased thanks to the "conventional medicine", i.e. pharmaceuticals, is increasing. The main influencing factors are not medicine, but food security, access to clean water, hygiene and social stability. In addition to wars, the mortality rate of newborn babies also has a very strong impact on the statistics. These factors have absolutely nothing to do with pharmaceuticals."

2 www.youtube.com/watch?v=5umdG1kp3mE

28. The lie of the deadly coronavirus

Who is supposed to understand that? A global "virus pandemic" that ultimately killed fewer or just as many people as a "normal" flu that occurs every year in other comparable periods? The entire economy was shut down for this. And in unison? With currently unforeseeable consequences! The good thing about it was that people finally got out of the constant state of employment. In January 2020, what I consider to be the biggest hoax in human history began in China. In March, the first lockdown took place in Austria, which would later affect the whole world. Did you know that on October 18, 2019, global players from companies and institutions coincidentally met for a virus simulation at an event called "Event 201"? They had carefully played out a "pandemic" on a global scale. A first and a longer second global lockdown were also held. Was that a coincidence? The virus is as dangerous as a mild flu, say hundreds of experts and scientists other than those presented, commissioned and paid by governments. So if corona was also visibly not dangerous, why was this global lockdown imposed? Who was supposed to benefit from it? Was it to vaccinate humanity, destroy the economy or reset the financial system? What is the motive behind the motive? Why did a papaya test positive for corona?

Much of what happened during corona was not thought through to the end. We as a society want to protect the 0.0001% of people from death and 99.9999% of people are now locked up every year for this? If we are already taking such a green-nosed approach to the matter, perhaps in future we will listen to experts from other specialist areas. Perhaps these questions should be answered by philosophers rather than politicians or stressed-out doctors and crisis teams, whose job is completely different. Swap security for freedom. Perhaps that is the real agenda. The studies say that, on balance, people choose autonomy as their greatest good. And this fight for freedom is where our heroic stories come from!

29. The lie about the virus in general

Louis Pasteur admitted on his deathbed that the microbe is nothing and the environment is everything! So you don't get sick because you are infected by a virus, but because your immune system (or whatever) is too weak and your environmental conditions, i.e. food, water, air, etc. are bad for you. Otherwise, in a viral epidemic, EVERYONE should get sick, right? But they won't. And although microscopes have an ever-increasing resolution (up to 0.2 nm), no virus has ever been detected whose size is supposedly between 15 and 400 nm. In science, it is apparently deliberately confused with cells. Virus detection is therefore not based on the virus itself, but on its alleged protein-residues take place.

Do you know Dr. Andrew Kaufman? He says: "Viruses are exosomes. They are excretions of poisoned cells and are not transmissible. Researchers call them viruses. The word virus comes from Latin and means pollutant or poison. Exosomes are reactions to the disease, not the cause. They facilitate healing by absorbing toxins!" Incidentally, according to vaccineimpact.com, this doctor is currently the most censored doctor in the USA! Why is this fact being kept from us? Why is the virus story so important? For whom?

30. The lie about the birthday

Hd you know that we mere mortals have only been celebrating birthdays since the advent of industrialization? Before that, it was only the name days that people celebrated in honor of their patron saint. Everyone had a name. In those days, only the birthdays of the sons of kings were precisely recorded so that their future, tasks and talents could be deduced astrologically. So should there still be a consumer-oriented birthday celebration for you? Perhaps just introduced and invented by sales-happy advertisers? Just like the Japanese, who now go out to eat at the Kentucky Fried Chicken fast food chain "out of tradition" following a successful Christmas media campaign? Do you still want to be celebrated as a birthday boy or would you rather celebrate the day you were born? The unique day and moment when YOU came into the world. I think it has a completely different energy. Can you feel the difference? Maybe that would give you a greater appreciation of your own life and you wouldn't have to count your anniversaries anymore! Perhaps we are getting older because we as a society are actively practising ageing? Do you have an answer?

31. The lie of the "environmental pest" human being

D he human being as the "root of all evil"? So from climate pest to alleged corona culprit? An anti-human propaganda that just won't stop. "Humans are evil!" seems to have arrived in society! This is the program, the agenda of today's media. The media to which we often devote up to five hours of our day. In principle, these are the same despicable messages as in the foreword to the book "If I were an animal", where Prince Philip wrote: "If I am ever reborn, please let it be as a deadly virus. That way I could play my part in s o l v i n g the problem of overpopulation."! So a man of the highest nobility speaks openly of genocide.

Yes, there are those few who throw garbage on the street, neglect their grandmothers or do something else. But it is always just one in 100, 1,000 or 10,000 and never all of them. Take, for example, the environmental sins that people are so quick to condemn. I say it's not us humans, but simply managers and elites who are responsible here! Or who should be to blame for the fact that inventions such as the development of the electric car 110 years ago or Nikola Tesla's wireless energy transmission and many others were deliberately held back, perhaps even in order to continue selling oil? Or that the product life of televisions or light bulbs has been artificially shortened by tens of years! Or the battle between plastics and hemp products, where hemp came out on top and was later even banned worldwide and its harvesters destroyed! Or when waste is still being dumped into rivers by truck today, polluting the oceans accordingly. In our village, 40 years ago, garbage dumps in the woods and ditches were simply banned and garbage collection was introduced everywhere and that was the end of the unnecessary pollution of the countryside. It could be regulated that quickly if we wanted to. In the same way, a war is never started by a people, but by the respective governments, their propaganda media, any alliances or the greedy financiers who are responsible for the war. So today's governments and the media should take a good look at themselves in this respect and not hold the people (Germany, for example) to account for decades.

32. The lie of the useful corporation

Q why corporations should pay (more) taxes: Because they use a country's infrastructure free of charge, which its citizens have produced and paid for through taxes. This starts with education, training, schools, studies and vocational training and continues with the healthcare system, care for the elderly and the roads on which their goods are transported. If this very group then pays less tax (e.g. 3 percent in Malta), it is knowingly and actually illegally helping itself to the country's public assets, in which it has its sites. If the employees are later too expensive or sucked out of the labor market and the roads are broken, the company moves to another country and plays the same game there. It's actually ridiculous to have to watch this happen, isn't it? Why are corporations around the world not taxed properly? Who earns from this?

33. The lie about motivation

You know how motivation works? Intrinsically, extrinsically - through pressure - away from pain or through attraction towards Goal? Have you made progress in your life with it? Have you often had to motivate people in this way of thinking yourself? Did it work? I've been working more or less from home since 2001 and have a job where I have to motivate myself every day. The discovery of how to deal with the hormone dopamine played a key role for me. It's a brilliant hormone because it leads to a state in which you no longer have to think about what you're going to do later. So you are motivated and just do it. Everything happens by itself, so to speak. This is very practical when working. You can imagine it to be similar to the much-quoted state of flow. You don't think about what you're doing. It practically sucks you towards your desired result. Imagine children playing or adults pursuing their favorite activity. No one is standing there with a rod. Have you studied dopamine yet? Assume that we as humans once lived in a state where we lived our lives in constant happiness and joy, driven by dopamine. Without even knowing, speaking or writing the word motivation.

So how does it work with the release of dopamine? Tatatata: You release dopamine by generating a positive expectation of results and anticipation through your thoughts. If you want to intensify the effect, you can also express the feeling physically. Let's take a practical example: let's say you want to do sport because you know it's important to you, you feel better afterwards, it's good for you and it's good for your health.

helps you lose weight and you want to look better or be healthier and so on. Imagine the situation, for example going for a run. You may realize that you don't really feel like it and that there are lots of other things to distract you. Somehow you can't get going. A familiar feeling, isn't it? Here's the trick. Try to think of something you can look forward to during or after your run. For example, if you won't be able to enjoy the scenery due to your current physical condition, then try to look forward to the creative input that will come during the run. It doesn't matter what it is for you exactly. The more you can look forward to, the better. And if you then discover yourself twenty minutes later, changed and running on your running route and think: "How did I get there now?", you have experienced the wonderful effect of the dopamine release. You can then apply this motivational experience to all areas of your life. Why has this been kept from us until now? Who benefits if we are only motivated by pressure or goals? Do you really think that nobody in the world knew this?

34. The lie about our inner bastard

What would you say if this bastard is perhaps nothing other than our soul? A soul that is simply telling us wants: "I don't like it now, please wait until later." (Or never, if it's just not right for you!) What would you say then? Then when we motivate or torture ourselves for something in particular, we are actually working against our soul. I assume that everything you do or don't do in life is always for your own good. Even if you may judge it differently at the time of the problem. So don't judge yourself for anything, just let it happen the way it might want to be. The topic of motivation or "just letting it happen" is a good example of the dimensional shift, which you will learn more about later in the book. This is the piano we are allowed to play here on our earth. Can you manage that? Do you already trust it?

35. The lie about our future

Interestingly, our future is predicted in books and later confirmed. So is our future controlled? The authors are members of groups and societies that lie about the world. In George Orwell's novel 1984, the author describes how the world will develop as early as 1948. As a blueprint, the novel coincidentally resembles the current world system. Swap security for freedom. I don't assume that all politicians have read this book. Anyone who still believes that this is a coincidence can also read Aldous Huxley's book "Brave New World" and will be shocked to discover that everything has been realized exactly as he predicted in his book decades ago. It reads more like a copy of a plan and less like a utopian novel about the future. So is our future predetermined? Perhaps even by the same people who are telling us about have lied to the past?

36. The lie about our idea of matter

In order to really understand the concept of matter, researchers in the first half of the 20th century had to delve into quantum theory. Max Planck had already revolutionized physical research in 1900. Nobel Prize winner Heisenberg then further shook up scientific dogma by establishing through his experiments that light can be both a wave and a particle at the same time. Today, the best-known experiment is the double-slit experiment, in which the observer of the experiment influences the experiment solely through his observation (looking, paying attention). The fact that information fields play an essential role in observation is reflected in research into quantum field theory. Prof. Dr. Hans-Peter Dürr, the former director of the Max Planck Institute for Physics, spent 60 years investigating the question of whether matter actually exists. In his book "There is no matter!" he stated: "Basically, matter does not exist. At least not in the literal sense. There is only a structure of relationships, constant change and vitality. We find it difficult to imagine this. Primarily there is only Connection, the unifying element without a material basis. We could also call it spirit. Something that we only experience spontaneously and cannot grasp. Matter and energy only appear secondarily - to a certain extent as coagulated, solidified spirit. We can compare them to the software in a computer, for example."

As technology developed, microscopes became more and more precise and, at the end of their observations, the scientists realized that there was no such thing as the smallest particle. It was just pure electrical potential. Even if we still regard atomic nuclei as matter, the Eiffel Tower would only be the size of a tennis ball if the electrons flew away from the atomic nuclei. So are matter and reality just electricity and potential? Form comes from information and the mind is above matter? What does that mean for you? How can you harness this information for yourself?

37. The lie of getting and being healthy

Our own body is itself a health production machine.
Who heals the broken bone or the cut? It is not the doctor or medicine, but our body. However, our self-healing is slowed down by mental and physical poisoning. So you can assume that everything that has poisoned our bodies and minds over the last few hundred years is responsible for the fact that we now have to think about health at all. This means that becoming healthy is about physical detoxification on the one hand and mental detoxification on the other.

Physical poisoning usually consists of heavy metals that we get into our bodies via amalgam fillings, vaccinations or our diet. Further contamination comes from cosmetics, water, pesticides from food production, plastics in packaging and personal hygiene. Fluoride in water or toothpaste is also a dangerous source of toxins that should be avoided and detoxified.

In any case, mental detoxification involves clearing up your burdening emotions. You can also stop accepting what others tell you as truth without checking it. It's best to be skeptical of EVERY piece of information. Even what you read here and what YOU tell yourself every day. Check every piece of information to see if it is true for you. You can think about this. Knowledge is the healer, because all illness arises from ignorance.

If we wanted to, we could be completely healthy at any time. But did you know that 80 percent of people don't want to let go of their illnesses? Simply because the benefits of illness (attention, preferential treatment) often outweigh the benefits. The concept of illness has been talked into us over the last few centuries by the world lie.

So how can you get healthy? For example, by simply mentally programming your body to do so. The body follows the mind. You know the example of the lemon. You imagine biting into it and your body immediately reacts by producing saliva. Good, healthy thoughts have the same effect. So we imagine how every cell in the body is healthy and give thanks for it, as if it were already a reality. I personally connect my I AM with the Creator of all being and non-being. Then I give thanks for good health and say the final words: "May you be blessed."

You too can support your bodily processes through mental and physical detoxification. It's not about how old you get, but about: How do you get old? All worries arise from ignorance. Illness is the inability to distinguish between truth and error, between the essential and the non-essential. All ailments that afflict the body or mind have their cause in ignorance and all happiness has its cause in clear and well-founded knowledge. All this knowledge can help us if it is later applied with (heartfelt) wisdom and guides us through life like a compass. Hence the saying: "Knowledge is the greatest healer." So why still be ill? Will you check the information? Is an illness important to you?

What does it develop?

38. The lie of the evil man

We are talking about being human, about being human. This is actually one of the highest honors or a of the highest values that we have to represent on earth. So man himself must be the greatest being in this world, right? But humans are generally identified as the culprit. Climate change, overpopulation, disease vectors, warmongers and so on. But is it really mankind? Is it the Tunisian family behind the seven mountains that is responsible for war, epidemics and climate change? Or is it perhaps a few corporations and their two-year managers who enjoy the profits from oil production, consumption, diseases, weapons production and factory farming? Is it the people who start a war or is it their governments who bring about such a scenario through hostility and media propaganda? One piece of wisdom will help us: Only those who correctly recognize the problem can solve it. Follow the money!

39. The lie Wikipedia

Leider only a portal in the service of the true world conspirators. Editors, most of whom appear to have a left-wing (communist) orientation, often even manipulate information full-time and discredit people and groups that are unsuitable for the world lie with negatively framed half-truths. And in hierarchies that are not transparent. The CIA also has a hand in this. The internet portal, NachDenkSeiten[3], writes: "The system of the online lexicon 'Wikipedia' urgently needs to be reformed. Editors and administrators of 'Wikipedia' have so far been able to remain anonymous. It is about the representation of individual interests, commercial engagement of individual or even organized, paid authors on behalf of industrial companies, politically motivated corrections by secret services of individual states." Who is behind this? Does Wikipedia really always report correctly? Is Wikipedia perhaps even political? Should it be?

40. The lie of man-made climate change

Al Gore had to publicly apologize for the numerous lies in his film "An Untold Truth". The figures and data had also been taken over by the Munich Reinsurance Company without being checked, wrote Roger Pielke Jr. in the New York Times on February 23, 2009. Incidentally, the film was banned for use in schools by the High Court in England and Wales because of its many errors. In Germany, however, it was still taught in class. Why? The whole $CO_2$ theory is flawed. What's more, $CO_2$ is very important for humans, animals and nature. Gardeners, for example, use $CO_2$ to promote faster plant growth in their greenhouses. Just so you know where the $CO_2$ propaganda is taking us, a quote from an ORF.at article: "Transformational processes should be discussed here - for example, whether owning a private car is still absolutely necessary for everyone today." So you want to abolish private transportation. The achievement from the 19th century that made us humans freer and more independent. That sounds even more absurd when you know that one large cargo ship alone emits just as many emissions as millions of cars. With 40,000 cargo ships and 6,500 passenger ships worldwide, it might be a good idea to apply some leverage. But the debate is not (yet) about logical thinking. So who wants to deprive us of an important source of life? What are the consequences if humans alone are declared to be the cause of climate change? What happens to the $CO_2$ certificates? Who makes money from $CO_2$ trading? What influence does solar activity have on global warming? Does it have warm and cold phases? has always existed? Why is Greenland called Greenland?

The mild winters of yesteryear[4]:

- In 1229 there were violets for Christmas
- In 1241 the trees blossomed in March
- In 1287 the trees were newly leafy in winter
- In 1538, the gardens were already in bloom in December

4 Article excerpt from the magazine "Allgemeiner Anzeiger" in Ermsleben from January 26, 1899

- In 1582 the trees were already green in February
- There was no winter in 1606, 1609 and 1617
- In 1659 there was no snow and no frost
- In 1792, there was no more heating in January and the trees blossomed in February
- There was no winter in 1807
- In 1816 and 1834 the winters were mild
- There were very mild winters in 1861, 1873, 1882 and 1897

41. The lie of science

Is science our new god today? In any case, its followers behave like people in a religious community. It is often based on assumptions that require no proof, so-called axioms, and therefore never reflects reality. On the basis of these assumptions, however, we are then served up stories, ideologies and world views that we are supposed to believe. In addition, there is a hodgepodge of theories that are presented to us as truths. For example, the Big Bang, relativity or evolution theories. Or how scientific is conventional medicine if a fake doctor can work undetected in a hospital for months or years? In the case of a mechanic, the foreman notices the incompetence on the very first day. So conventional medicine cannot be very scientific. Nevertheless
The narratives of the scientists dominate our daily lives.

The historian of science Steinle says: "The false assumption joins a long list of historical hypotheses that were not tenable. Contrary to what was thought, the earth is not a disk, contrary to what was thought, the sun does not revolve around the earth, contrary to what was thought, iron cannot be turned into gold (or perhaps it can). False assumptions are as much a part of the history of science as its groundbreaking discoveries. Research is a series of hypotheses which, when tested, have either proved to be right or wrong. Error is part and parcel of research. Wrong results are not necessarily evidence of bad science - science can always be wrong. Already

The philosopher Friedrich Hegel suggested that the fear of being wrong could be the error itself. Without the risk of rejecting a statement - even with the risk that it may be wrong - science stands still!" Science is not free. It conducts research for a client. The results should not be honest, but should benefit the client. Did the studies on alleged man-made climate change come before or after Al Gore's first appearances? Has he become rich or poor as a result of his commitment? Who pays for the research and thus controls science? Who sets the criteria for which research projects are supported?

42. The lie about our history

Our current historiography is fundamentally fictitious and a lie. So where do we come from? Under what circumstances were the ancient buildings of the world's early civilizations built? What are the real causes of war? How did people live 200, 500 years ago? 1,000 or 10,000 years ago? Is it just a coincidence that many ancient, important cultural sites on our planet are connected in a straight line, forming a "prehistoric equator"? With a deviation of just a few tenths of a degree, the following places are lined up: Easter Island, the ruins of Machu Picchu, the ruins of Ollantaytambo, the Nazca Lines, the rock city of Petra, the Oracle of Siwa, the pyramids of Giza, the Sumerian city of Ur, the prehistoric site of Mohenjo-Daro and the Angkor Wat temple complex. And all this despite the fact that global shipping was not yet possible! Are we humans really descended from apes? Did the Egyptians really build the pyramids with a copper chisel and put the stones on top of each other using pure muscle power? Where do we come from? Have you seen the movie
Have you seen "Pyramid Lie - The truth about mankind's biggest lie"? This documentary was researched all over the world for over ten years. The original film is almost three hours long. It tells the latest facts about the pyramids that we have learned from the established know "science" differently. Are we really in the first generation of humanity?

43. The lie about the Bible

Kre we really aware of the history of man? Why have the Old and New Testaments been rewritten over the centuries by "ecclesiastical leaders"? For what purpose? The Gospel of the Essenes, allegedly found by a student in the Vatican in 1920, tells us a completely different story of Jesus. It is essentially about a group, the Essenes, who could also have lived somewhere in the German-speaking world. The reports were mainly about a healthy life and a vegetarian diet. What if everything else was an invention and this was the truth? What would that mean for our lives? Did you know that the phrase "Fear not!" appears 366 times in the Bible? Have you ever done hypnosis training? Here it is taught that the human subconscious does NOT hear the word. Have you ever read over the word NOT in a piece of writing yourself? The sentence that we subconsciously hear from the Bible would then be: "Fear!" As a professional copywriter, you should even mark the word NOT in important documents or preferably formulate the sentence positively. In the case of the Bible, this would be expressed in a positive way:

"Be brave!" How does that sound? Maybe it was just a translation error 366 times? Maybe you should also take a look at the Ten Commandments. Thou shalt NOT ...! Shouldn't God know exactly how our subconscious works? Or did the God who loves us unconditionally want us to be afraid when reading the Bible 366 times and perhaps even misunderstand his Ten Commandments? By the way, were you aware that Martin Luther's theses on the reformation of the church led to one of the most unnecessary and biggest wars in Europe? He wanted to reform the church, influenced the entire European cultural sphere and thus created the basis for almost 200 years of religious wars in Europe. During the Thirty Years' War alone, the population was reduced by a third, from 18 million to 12 million. Was Martin Luther a blessing or a misfortune for Europe and humanity? What did he say about the peasants back then? Who was he associated with at the time? Did he have a client? Have you ever thought about this?

44. The lie about SOCRATES: "I KNOW THAT I KNOW NOTHING!"

The common translation does not tri@ the true background of the actual statement. Literally translated, the saying means "I know as a non-knower" or "I know that I do not know". The additional "-s" after "not" is a translation error. With his statement, Socrates is not claiming that he knows nothing. Rather, he is questioning what we think we know and that perhaps even all the ideas of this world are wrong. What was he trying to tell us with this (perhaps deliberate) error? Is the error even a program of the lie of the world? Is Socrates' well-known saying ("so it crows") a false guideline? A trap? So that you should live in the belief that you know nothing? Like a divine providence? Who benefits from that if you know nothing? By the way, do you know Plato's allegory of the cave? Have you studied it with your teacher at school? Is that a truth?

45. The lie of scarcity in the world

In nature always produces in abundance. The apple tree bears hundreds of fruits and only needs one seed to multiply. In life, everything is always abundant. Solutions are also known to a p p e a r before the task. We often just lack the ability to perceive them. Through gratitude for what is, we humans can free ourselves from any lack. Michelangelo was asked how he had been able to create such a beautiful statue. The sculptor said: "The David was always there. I just had to remove the superfluous marble around him." What do you need to get rid of in your life? Perhaps everything you have ever learned in your life? The author Werner Ablass once described it like this in an interview: 'When you approach a task, there may be thoughts of lack, such as: Will the space be free? How will it turn out? Can I use it? Will I be good? These are thoughts of uncertainty and they only express a lack. Alternatively, you might ask yourself: 'Where, when and how long will it take when I am fully confident?

that everything will happen for my own good? This expresses a unity. Thoughts of security, joy, love and gratitude. Simply being in abundance." Which state do you like better? Oscar Wilde said: "There comes a moment of choice and decision for everyone, whether he is to live his own life, a most personal life of deepest fullness, or whether he is to resign himself to that false, shallow, degrading existence which the hypocrisy of the world desires of him." Where are you lacking? Why have you not yet been shown the alternative? Who benefits from your dissatisfaction?

46. The lie about the good do-gooder

A do-gooder is a person who places himself morally above others through his behavior. However, no one has the right to elevate themselves above the morals of others. A do-gooder is a person who wants to distribute community wealth to other communities without asking his own community. A do-gooder is a person who wants to help without thinking about the real causes of a problem. This delays the real solution to the detriment of both communities. Who controls the do-gooders and how? Daniel Bösiger wrote in a Tagesanzeiger column: "Kant already explained how much freedom the individual can claim - so much that the freedom of others is not affected." What do you think about this topic? Do you know the book "Achtung, Gutmenschen!" by Dietmar Bittrich?

47. The lie about the stupid TRUMP

ask yourself, what would have been the alternative to Trump? By that I mean at the level of big politics. Up to now, we have been led by the media to call Trump a fool. If Hillary Clinton or now Biden had continued on the path of Obama, we might already be in a physical world war. We would be mobilizing our children right now and sending them to the East as "peacekeepers". Russia would also be involved.

Perhaps Irlmaier's prophecy would have already been fulfilled.
But what do we have instead of Whose? The wars are over, a peace agreement with North Korea, the friendship with Russia, the decrees regarding 5G and against forced vaccinations, the ISIS mercenaries in Syria have been dismantled, the 172,000 closed indictments (as of June 2020) and the at least 3.000 resignations of CEOs from around the companies of the World Lie Organizations, the exposure and arrest of thousands of criminals and pedophiles, the end of human and drug trafficking, the emerging economy in the United States with millions fewer food stamp recipients before Corona, and a few more positive things. Where does the agitated mob of journalists and (left-wing) politicians worldwide come from? All against one. Why are they so stressed out if nothing essential had really happened as a result of this election? Did you know that Trump was the first president in American history to even publicly speak out against abortion at an anti-abortion rally? He said: "Abortion is murder and every child has the right to a beautiful childhood." Of course, those around Trump have their interests again, but perhaps we will canonize Trump in our own way one day. Trump himself says: "They're not fighting me, they're fighting you. I'm just standing in the middle!" We'll see soon enough. In any case, if it leads away from wars, human trafficking, abortions, globalization and forced vaccinations, then that would be very good news, wouldn't it? Who are the opponents? You may soon find out through the media. Do you want to wait for that?

48. The lie of Catholicism

The Catholic Church is based on the firm dogma of original sin. We are guilty and anyone who does not live according to the church's commandment is living in sin. This is why the sale of indulgences was introduced in the Middle Ages. Does this form of inquisition still exist today? Scandals, intrigues and dubious financial transactions also repeatedly put the Holy See in need of an explanation. Even Wikipedia has to summarize the points of criticism of the Roman Catholic Church in its collection as follows: "The Church is undemocratic and the dogma of the Pope's infallibility in matters of faith is arrogant and autocratic. It discriminates against women. Its sexual morality is difficult and weighs against the church's own moral standards.

Church is particularly difficult. "Do you know Karlheinz Deschner's work "The Criminal History of Christianity"? Sometimes this criticism culminates in the accusation that the church is the "greatest criminal organization in history". The 5,000-page compilation was extensively documented by him with facts and is largely undisputed. The church completely contradicts a self-assumed Christian commandment of poverty. As an employer, the church discriminates against people of other faiths and non-believers. The European Court of Human Rights has also publicly criticized this fact. Did you know that the German state pays around 50 billion euros a year to the Roman Catholic Caritas and the Protestant Diakonisches Werk? Did you know that only a third of priests in Germany are truly celibate? For this study, 8,600 pastors were surveyed across Germany. Unfortunately, further research reveals even (much) worse news. This is also the reason why they will never (be able to) canonize the former President of the United States and why he doesn't want to. So I'll leave the rest to you. Do you want to take a look at the "rabbit hole"? Do you already know Archbishop Vigano's incendiary letter? Did you know that the Vatican owns the largest telescope in the world? It's called Lucifer, by the way. Do you believe that?

49.The lie about our language

Language is not suitable for communication, says the most famous linguist Noam Chomsky. It is even unsuitable for communica tion was not even created. Let's go one step further to what Wittgenstein says about this: "The limits of our language are the limits of our world." What does that mean? In other words, language, speaking, the use of words, is perhaps the greatest prison that has been found for human beings. Perhaps without language there would be neither conflict nor separation and lack, resentment, no time, only a fulfilled life in the now? Who invented language then? Did it simply arise through evolution? Or was it imposed on a telepathic being - namely the human being - by other entities in order to imprison it within the framework of its language? Who dogmatically dictates this frame of thought today? Who is keeping this story from us? Why?

50. The lie about abortions

The entire global economy has been disrupted by coronavirus, which is said to have caused up to one million deaths worldwide. It is costing countries billions of dollars to mitigate the damage. Did you know that 40 to 56 million abortions take place worldwide every year? In purely numerical terms, this is the biggest cause of death worldwide! According to estimates, at least 30,000 of these children are aborted in Austria alone, ten times the number of children in Germany! Did you know that abortions often leave painful marks on women? "I wish I could undo this abortion, but unfortunately I can't!" Did you know that only 1% of abortions are due to rape? Did you know that since abortions have been permitted, doctors no longer swear the Hippocratic oath, because abortion is forbidden there? Did you know that Planned Parenthood employees illegally sell aborted fetuses? Incidentally, the church strictly rejects the use of condoms, while it only raises comparatively mild objections to millions of abortions every year. Take children to school and take a pregnant cat with you. Tell them that there are too many cats and that you want to join them in cutting the kittens out of the cat's belly! What will the children say? Who has taken away any form of empathy for human life from us as "adults"? "Abortion kills two: the child and the mother's conscience." Why don't you feel anything here anymore? Why are abortions even publicly propagandized in the media? "Perhaps we should concentrate on creating an environment in which abortions no longer even have to be thought about. A

"The right to abortion, on the other hand, violates both the dignity of the woman and the dignity of the child," says Dr. Stephanie Merckens from the IEF. Why doesn't a family get 1,000 euros child benefit per child per month for 10 years? Do we have too many children in our country? The accommodation of a "highly qualified immigrant" often costs up to 5,000 euros per month, perhaps for decades! Have you ever thought about that? Are you already on the street? What kind of game is this?

51. The lie about our thinking

Wow or with what do we actually think? The brain would of course be the classic answer. Briefly about my observation:

Think about out-of-body perceptions, for example the near-death experience. The question arises as to who or what is thinking when the brain is dead and no brain activity (EEG) can be detected. The nerves in the body do not work. Nevertheless, after a near-death experience, people talk about what they experienced and perceived in this state, about observing the conversations of loved ones or seeing how they were placed in the ambulance. One patient, for example, clearly remembers fetching his wife from the waiting room during his near-death experience so that she could tell the doctor to continue resuscitating him, as he had already stopped. The doctor and the wife later confirm this observation. So, how was the dear man able to think at this time if his brain showed no activity? Where was his consciousness during this time? Why did he see everything? Does our seeing, hearing and thinking perhaps take place outside our physical body? Are you familiar with the temporary lucidity of dementia patients just before they die? Or the topic of deathbed visions? Is this person perhaps already better c o n n e c t e d to another world? Are you familiar with the book "The Phenomenon of Near-Death - Fascinating Discoveries of a Psychiatrist" by Walter Meili? Let's start with the image of body-mind-soul and define the mind (astral body?) as the place where thinking takes place, thoughts are formed and ideas arise. Then perhaps the brain is only a buffer or a switching center between our idea of earth and heaven. Perhaps the brain only serves to make it easier to recall the knowledge stored in it, or perhaps not even that. What do you think about this? Have you ever thought about this? Why is this fact kept so secret? How could we improve our thinking performance on the basis of these considerations? Perhaps by simply finding a better connection "upwards"?

52. The lie about the "negative" chaos

Finally open up! - Who hasn't heard this phrase before? From your parents, later from flatmates, your partner? Clutter has long had a bad reputation, especially in the world of work. Wrongly so? Tidiness promotes qualities such as honesty, social behavior and a healthy lifestyle. Disorder increases resourcefulness, creativity and originality. Accordingly, various psychologists recommend "cultivated disorder". A basic order with small "islands of chaos" makes it possible to be creative without getting bogged down. So why is chaos generally portrayed negatively? Who is looking for this division? Who benefits from us arguing about this issue? What happens to us when we feel bad? Is chaos a phenomenon of a higher order? Does it perhaps connect us with a potential that has been hidden from us by this lie of the world? remained borrowed?

53. The lie about our blood

Blut saves lives? Unfortunately, this general formula is a fatal misconception. Did you know that blood transfusions can even be dangerous for the patient? can be? Every blood bag increases the risk of infections and heart problems. Studies have shown that there are more secondary heart attacks after transfusions, which multiplies the mortality rates. Transfused cells can also trigger ulcers in the body decades later. Nowadays, however, transfusion medicine is literally set in stone in conventional medicine. Doctors and experts who publicly point out the risks have experienced threats and encountered resistance from the hierarchy. The entire supply network (blood banks, plasma industry and emergency surgery) is under scrutiny for this very reason. Why don't we know this? Have you seen the documentary "Bad Blood" by Ulrike Gehring?

54. The lie of no alternatives

The Wikipedia without alternative writes: "The bad word of the year 2010

"No alternatives" inappropriately suggests that there are no alternatives in a decision-making process from the outset and therefore no need for discussion and argumentation. Claims of this kind were made too often in 2010 and threatened to increase political disenchantment among the population. The term was used from 2009 onwards, particularly by Angela Merkel and the German government at the time." Here are a few terms to think about together. Do you really believe that there is no alternative? Democracy & the party system, the school system, factory farming, glyphosate, 5G, wars and mass migration, world hunger, two million children abducted in the world every year, child abuse and paedocriminality, environmental pollution, care homes, negative news, animal transportation, food production. Which of these topics are you satisfied with? Is it possible to fight back? The easiest way, of course, is in a large group. Any idea what you can do on your own? Here are a few examples of how you can escape powerlessness a little: Build up your life energy, be better informed and take precautions for your health so that you spend less on the health industry, perhaps consume as little as possible, turn off the TV and thus the daily ration of hypnosis, point out the recognized mistakes of the world lie, the media, politics, corporations within the scope of your possibilities and spread them via a network within the family, work as little as possible and thus avoid taxes and insurance, take advantage of legitimate benefits, pay back debts and preferably no longer go into debt, store locally at the store around the corner, form communities, bring people together and provide them with new knowledge, build up children and family clans, learn Rudolf Steiner's New Thinking, empower yourself, be in your own center, leave religious communities, to name just a few of the possibilities. So if there were alternatives, why doesn't anyone tackle them? Who would be in charge? What can you do personally? What are you doing now?

Have you already gone a little crazy with your VOR positions ?

When my old neighbor first told me about the Bilderbergers and their alleged secret meetings and agreements in 2008, I just said: "I don't believe it! Why would they do that? We'd all be out on the street demonstrating!" He recommended a movie to me at the time, which later led me on my path of discovery. The movie "Thrive - What on earth will it take?" lifts the veil on our world view. It describes the incredible potential of humanity. Everything is already there to make the world a better place. You can watch the film "Thrive - What on earth will it take?

will need it" on YouTube.

If this is the first time you have been confronted with the world of lies, I understand your disbelief. Some things may just be a matter of opinion or you may not have been able to deal with them yet. Someone else will have become a little more aware of the extent of the lies and someone else will be happy to discover more lies for their search for truth. In any case, the latter has already moved his PRE-positions a little "to the side" so that he will soon find the wisdom behind them. This will also make it easier for him to inform his family and friends about the (still) sick state of this world. By opening this treasure chest, you will see that all the solutions and potentials of your life were hidden in it. Your PRE-positions are currently built on a foundation of huge lies. I would be delighted if I could inspire you further in the next chapter to find your truth more quickly. We will move on to the next higher level of observation. Namely with the universal laws of nature.
